'LET THERE BE LIGHT' BECOMES CAMPUS CRY

Although artificial illumination failed on the El Camino College campus last week, the process of mental illumination proceeded without interruption for 2929 newly-enrolled summer students.

Power failure dimmed the lights of most college buildings on a recent afternoon, following which a frantic search by campus electricians and outside specialists unearthed a broken cable, now repaired.

Daytime classes were shifted "to the sunny side" of rooms; evening classes were transferred to the areas on campus which were unhit by the power failure. The new enrollees— from Abel (Jerome S.) to Zunderweg (Thomas W.)—continued the studies which began on July 1.

IN OFFICES, meanwhile, members of the secretarial staff were grateful for cloudless days and found flashlights powerful allies when searching for records in the dark corners of files. Chemistry classes put Bunson burners to practical use as visual aids.

The "business as usual" sign was taken down in life science labs, however. There, Lab Technician Ellie Boys was busy transporting serum and feline cadavers from powerless refrigerators to the home cooling unit of her mother, oil campus.

With the break detected, campus officials promised resumption of electrical services by morning as campus inhabitants remembered an old Biblical injunction, "Let there be light."

Stock Season Opens Friday

Opening the El Camino Summer Stock program this week end will be the Arthur Miller play, "View From the Bridge," which will be presented tomorrow at 8:30 p.m. at the college theatre under the direction of Joseph D'Agosta.

Marked with violence and sensationalism, the play deals with relationships among Sicilian immigrants in a Brooklyn slum. Starring in the production are Charles Cox, Gary Pagett, Vivian Vale, Jacques Oliver, and Antonio Castano. Other cast members include: Eric Morgan, Parker Herriot, Wilfred Mawborne, Harry Parks, Gary Shaffer, Will Ewing, Charles Stratton, Jack Stockdale, and W. K. Landon. Crew members are Gary Shaffer, assistant director; Martin Steffire, lighting, and Rey Day, stage manager. Sets were designed and constructed by members of Leslie Thomas' stagecraft classes.

Single admissions will be available at the box office tomorrow and Saturday evening for 75 cents. Season tickets, at $2 for four production, will be on sale in the bookstore today and tomorrow and also at the box office.
